

Michelle Willis Lyrics

« The Parkway »

Sitting on the parkway
I remember last autumn
How we sat each night out on the old wooden
Benches

Cars raced past and we dreamed of worlds we Wanted

Sun stretched out
O'er the rooftops of houses
Change was coming
And it held the promise of hope

We were timeless in dreaming
Hungry for freedom
And there wasn't a thing we were afraid of

Take me back to last autumn
When time was slow and I could see
All that I needed and wanted so clearly
In front of me

Now I'm here, change has come
I'm stuck reminiscing on bolder days
(And all that we bound)

Searching ground, pages of words
For the light that we found

We gave each other the strength to dream
Confidence of what we could achieve
And sky's the limit

Oh brother, I need you now
Won't you come on and sit beside me

Take me back to last autumn
When hope was strong and I could see
All that I needed and wanted so clearly
In front of me
